The Guardians beg to state in reply that they consider it would be useless to fix a scale of fees, because in difficult cases extra professional services can be requisitioned by a Dispensary Medical Officer and the Relieving Officer would be bound to procure the services of an extra Medical Officer, who, perhaps, would not be willing to give his services for the fee fixed in a scale. Besides such cases are few and far between, fortunately.

Healy—to cease their petty jealousies towards each other, and to devise a Programme of Unity before the 1st July, otherwise we must deem them unfit to lead, and unworthy of the confidence and respect of the Irish people, and we must then consider it our unpleasant duty to request them to resign.

"Furthermore, we respectfully and earnestly request the co operation of all Newspaper Editors who really wish to see unity to assist towards this end, otherwise every Irishman who loves his country should deem it his bounden duty to discontinue his subscription towards any papers that act contrary, thereby unmistakably marking his disapproval of such pernicious writings."
